Fine Offer For Ford Owners

FREE FILL WITH THOR "CHAT-EZ" OIL DURING NEXT WEEK

That it pays to own a Ford automobile is apparent in today's announcement by the Thor corporation that for five days next week every car of that popular design in Ocean Beach, Mission Beach, and Pacific Beach will be entitled free of charge to a drain and complete fill with Thor "Chat-Ez" Ford oil.

This sensational announcement follows upon a policy of the Thor corporation of depending upon a product to sell itself rather than high-pressure methods. Similar campaigns have been held in San Bernardino, Redlands, Riverside, Anaheim, Santa Ana, and parts of Los Angeles and "Chat-Ez" has breasted the line a winner in each instance. Thousands of Ford owners have rallied to its standard of highest quality and are proclaiming its merits each day. In San Diego more than nine thousand Ford owners were invited through the mail to try "Chat-Ez" free of charge this week and have already found it to be the "Wonder Oil for Fords."

"Chat-Ez" is a special processed oil whose heat resisting force has been increased so that it will withstand the maximum temperatures developed within the engine and at the same time takes care of the more loosely fitted parts, namely the bands. Chatter is eliminated through added and concentrated lubrication rather than through uses of soap compounds, animal fats, aluminum sterates, and other foreign materials. It is through the factor of perfect lubrication that a film of oil forms between cylinder wall and ring and thus increases power, mileage, and acceleration.

The Thor corporation, in addition to being manufacturers of "Chat-Ez" are marketing soaps, greases, and oils for every type of engine now in use. All products are made through and under specifications of the Fred A. Korman process, which is owned by the Thor corporation.

Service stations at which "Chat-Ez" may be put into the crankcase free of charge next week are Sunset Super Service, 1002 Garnet, Pacific Beach; Wess & Rae Caldwell, Abbott and Voltaire, Ocean Beach, and Swartz's Service Station, Voltaire and Froude, Ocean Beach.

Clip the adv. of "Chat-Ez" on another page and present it at the stations named for prompt and complete service.

You And Your Bank

Talking with your banker is not wasting either his time or yours, if the conversation stays within bounds. In the first place, he probably has a wider perspective of business conditions than most of his fellow townsmen. His business consists principally of applying to everyday affairs his knowledge of what goes on in the whole financial world, and doing it so skilfully that he and his customers both make maney by it. A few minutes of conversation with him may bring out some information that you can profit by.

Again, he generaly possesses pretty sound judgment. If he lacks it he does not last long as a banker. I have seen a good many men and women speed up their progress by making it a rule to consult their bankers before going ahead with any important plans —though I can't honestly say that a banker's judgment is infallible and should always be followed. Bankers, like all other classes of human beings, sometimes make mistakes no matter how hard they try not to.

But here is an example of how consulting a banker may pay, even though the banker's predictions may not turn out one hundred per cent accurate. Perhaps three years ago a moderately successful young professional man went to an oficer of the bank where he kept his personal account.

"I have been offered the chance to buy stock in such-and-such a company," he explained. "The ownership of the company is changing from A, B and C to a group headed by C and D. It has never made any money, but that was to be expected in its first couple of years. I know C is a good business man, and in this new line-up he will have a lot more to say about the management than he has had so far."

"H-m-m, I'm not so sure about C," commented the banker. "You know he owned a store near here several years ago. He struck me then as pretty reckless. I wouldn't say much about it if they had turned out well—he used to say I was an old fogey. But his judgment was not remarkably good. He made about as much money on his good guesses as he lost on his poor ones, so when he finally sold out he got away with a whole skin. He's a very bright man, but he needs a balance wheel.

"I doubt whether D can keep him in balance, for D has too many other interests. You certainly can't spend a lot of time watching C to keep him from doing something reckless, for you have your own living to make in your profession. How much money were you thinking about

A law enacted by the last state legislature requiring three days "notice of intention to marry" went into effect yesterday. While the legislature declared in the new statue that three days must elaspe between the date of application and issuance of the license in reality five days' interval is required. The law requires three "full" days to elapse, and the date of application and date of isuance cannot be counted in the three days. THREE TO ONE IN EVENTUAL EMPLOYE OWNERSHIP IN BANK

Definitely lifting a fine new venture in American business out of the experiment stage, the Bank of Italy has issued a special statement through its board of directors, showing that its employes have accumulated 28,408 shares of stock in the institution, and thus have to their credit an interest in the great bank to the extent of $4,800,000.

The venture is what might be termed "eventual employe ownership." When it was broached by the bank two and one-half years ago, it excited world-wide interest, and its development is being as widely watched. The bank has the distinction of being the first financial institution in the country to put the plan into effect, and it is meeting with the same marked success in that institution as in the various industrial establishments where it is being utilized.

The bank pays 40 per cent of its net profits into this fund, aiding to that extent in the revolutionary change in ownership. This contribution to the fund for the first six months of 1927 was in excess of $680,000. To this was added $222,000 that the 4,000 or more employes throughout the state paid out of their salaeirs, meaning that for every dollar the employe put into the fund the bank matched it with more than three dollars.

A new effort to have the theory of evolution taught in the public schools of California as an established fact has ended at naught. Lack of surface water is given as a cause for the dwindling quail population of the state in protected preserves by Dr. Joseph Grinnell, curator of the museum of vertebrate zoology at the University of California, and editor of The Condor, popular bird magazine. Dr. Grinnell in a survey of the southern part of the state where water is scarce anyway, has found that practically every spring and surface flow has been tapped for domestic consumption. As a result, young quail which must be within 400 yards or walking distance of water, within a few hours of hatching in order to live, usually die.

Her condition has not changed since April 4, when she was discovered unconscious in a gas-filled room at her home. Medical science has done all in its power to break the strange coma, which points, according to doctors who have been treating her, to certain death. Statement Put Issue Squarely Up to Teddy "Have any of you children had a birthday the last week?" Mrs. Morrow, the Sunday school teacher, asked.

Three of her pupils raised their hands.

"Well, Charles and Betty and Jimmie, you may come forward and put your birthday pennies in the birthday box."

The three marched proudly to the front and dropped in their pennies. As each child dropped the pennies Mrs. Morrow counted so all could hear. Five for Charles, six for Betty and—

"Why, Jimmie, you're more than three years old!" Mrs. Morrow exclaimed. Jimmie had dropped in three pennies and started back to his seat.

"Yes'm," Jimmie agreed readily, "I'm six."

"But you only dropped in three pennies," protested the teacher.

"Yes, but I'm twins," Jimmie explained. "Teddy couldn't come to Sunday school this morning, but it was half his birthday, and he'll have to put in the other three cents."—Kansas City Star.

Eskimos Eat Bird Raw

The Greenland auk or dove-kie is a greatly relished food among the Eskimos, who eat the bird raw, biting through the clean feathers into the firm meat of the breast. A hungry Eskimo, it is said, will eat as many as 100 little auks at one sitting. This would be more than could be crowded into four frying pans. The little auks live mainly on shrimp, and their meat is said to be very palatable. They lay their eggs among the rocks, to protect them from enemies.

"The best aristocracy of which any man can boast is a long line of healthy, honest and industrious ancestors.

He who prides himself upon his ancestry is like potatoes—all that is good of him is under ground."

SUMMER MEATS

The perishable meats supply us a variety for summer which are enough to keep us from monotony. Sweetbreads, tongues, liver, brains, are all good foods when nicely cooked and served. Some people enjoy kidneys; even these may be so cooked and dressed that the uninitiated may dare to try them.

Sheep's Kidneys en Brochette.—Take six sheeps' kidneys, cut through the center, remove the white veins and fat. Wash well, cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes, then drain and dry. Cut bacon into slices half the size of the kidneys, place on a skewer a piece of kidney and a piece of bacon, two pieces of kidney to each skewer. Place on a broiler, baste while cooking and serve when cooked five minutes.

Smoked Beef Tongue.—Wash and soak the tongue overnight. In the morning put on to cook in a kettleful of water, simmer gently for four hours or until perfectly tender. Add more water if needed. Let stand until cold, remove the skin from the tongue and serve sliced and garnished with parsley or serve sliced, heated in any well-seasoned sauce.

Beef's Heart Stuffed With Veal.—Soak the heart three hours in cold water to cover, remove the arteries and all tissue. Take one pound of uncooked veal chopped fine, one-fourth pound of salt pork also chopped fine, four tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs, a tablespoonful of onion juice, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, one egg slightly beaten, a few mushrooms cooked five minutes in butter. Mix all these ingredients and stuff the heart. Wrap in a cloth and sew it. Stand in a small saucepan with the point down, cover with boiling water and just simmer for three hours, then remove the cloth and place in a baking pan in the oven for an hour, basting every ten minutes with sweet fat. Serve with a brown sauce either hot or cold.

Potted Chicken.—Take the meat from cold roast chicken, rejecting skin and sinews, chop fine and to every pint allow a half-cupful of chopped tongue or ham. Put the bones in a saucepan and cover with a pint of cold water, cook to less than a cupful. Strain and remove the fat. Pound the chicken to a paste with the tongue or ham, adding a little of the liquor to moisten, season with salt, pepper and melted butter. Put into glass and cover with melted butter. Cover with a paper moistened with the white of egg and keep in a cool dry place.

Hints on Flavor.

Flavor is a subtle, alluring thing, and yet it is of utmost importance in cookery, as food must please the palate to give pleasure as well as nourishment. Flavor is that something which distinguishes really artistic home cookery from the nondescript boarding house variety, and it is what makes French cookery seem so very unusual and delicious to the average American who goes abroad.

The simplest of seasonings is salt, but to salt food properly is an art. Food too salty is flat and tasteless. The same thing is true of the peppers we use in seasoning; too much is annoying; just enough enhances the flavor.

The European cook not only uses onion and leeks freely, but knows how to use them in that suggestive manner with skill and delicacy that shows her artistry. A clove of garlic rubbed on the inside of the salad bowl will give that touch of flavor, and this is not considered by her too much trouble.

Spices and condiments are used by the Europeans with a great finesse, thereby gaining piquant flavors, so blended, that no one can be distinguished.

It is more a matter of taking infinite pains with cookery that produces these tasty foods than an extravagant expenditure of money for rare foods and flavors.

The careful cooking of meats, closely covered to hold in all the flavor, the cooking down to make the delicious brown sauce with which to serve it—all small details—but so important in food and flavor.

Puddings, custards, sauces, cakes and baked apples will all have a more mellow flavor if made with sugar that has been caramelized. Place the desired amount in a heavy saucepan or iron frying pan and stir over the heat until the sugar is melted and of the color of maple sirup. It is well to remember that caramelized sugar is less sweet, so some sugar should be used with it or more of the caramel used.

PARIS SAYS VELVET HANDBAGS; FROCKS OF ALL-OVER LACE

COMES now another thrill into the scheme of summer accessories, both beautiful and fashionable—the velvet hand bag. These chic envelope purses and hand bags, styled of velvet in all-black or in enchanting pastel shades, lend an entrancing note to the midsummer costume.

It was a stroke of genius on the part of an artist-born creator of things lovely, who one day in Paris set the fashion of carrying a black velvet hand bag with the summer beflowered frock. And now there is every promise of a hue and clamor for velvet hand bags throughout the fashion centers of the world—and the vogue is only at its beginning.

A MESSAGE FROM PARIS

Elegance is the keynote to the velvet bag which has become a part of the summer ensemble. These new envelope purses and hand bags are 100 per cent exquisite even unto the slightest detail of their finely wrought metal finishings. And their linings! To see within one of these soft-shirred bags is like looking into the heart of a flower so dainty is its colorings and all that goes toward achieving an esthetic effect.

The vogue for matching the bag to some detail of the costume and especially to millinery is charmingly interpreted with velvet as the medium. With the sheer midsummer frock there is nothing prettier than the picturesque pastel-colored crin capelines banded with velvet ribbon of the same color, the velvet hand bag repeating the identical shade.

A combination extremely flattering to the lace or chiffon frock is that of the velvet hand bag matched to the velvet shoulder flower. Other clever accessory sets include a velvet sleeveless jacket with a velvet-banded hat. Recently narrow pastel velvet belts have made their appearance.

The importance of velvet as a summer item is very apparent. According to the prophecy of fashion seers, its present favor is but a prologue to the prominent part which it will play in autumn styles.

The mode is reveling in lace. It is lace for the frock, and lace for the blouse, wraps all of lace, hats of lace, too, and if you please, lace parasols for this summer. It is easily accounted for, this almost unprecedented popularity of lace, when we remember that the present-day trend in the fashionable world is frankly toward a more feminine styling than has existed for many a season. So there we have it—lace and the eternal feminine—which is ever and for all time a truism of the mode.

Between many laces, choose the loveliest, this is the complex confronting fashion's followers today. It requires a fine gift of discrimination to be able to select one from among a galaxy of lace gowns, each of which seems prettier than the other. There are the modish all-black lace transparencies which pose so alluringly over pink silken slips, competing with delicate beige lace frocks, filmy as a fleeting summer cloud, and—glory of lace glories—those pastel-tinted lace gowns, which have just recently entered the list.

The fashioning of the lace gown is about as varied as are the types of lace from which to choose. A model which is as practical as it is charming, follows the redingote silhouette. The beauty of this version of the lace dress is that it can be worn over any colored slip, being detachable and an entirely separate proposition. See the winsomeness of this style in the picture to the right. Such a garment made of ecru or beige chantilly lace is effective over either a self-colored underfrock or over one of pale pink.

TWO PRETTY AFTERNOON FROCKS

In fact it may be worn to advantage over any pastel shade. Note the wide insertion of lace embellishing the parasol.

The frock to the left demonstrates the beauty of a summer frock which adds a wrap of self-toned chiffon with lace in a delicate tan. To many the lace-trimmed chiffon frock is of more alluring appeal than the dress all of lace. An interesting style item in connection with this model is the flowing sleeve achieved by sewing on a wide flare of the lace. Skirts which accent wide lace flouncing as here pictured are also in favor with the mode.

In millinery a smart item is the felt hat with insets of self-colored or contrasting lace. Also the eyebrow veil of dainty lace is in fashion.

New CALIFORNIA THEATER

"Natural drama" will be introduced to San Diego in an advanced state when "Chang," the Siamese jungle picture produced by Ernest B. Schoedsack and Merian C. Cooper is released locally by Paramount at the New California theatre for one week, starting today.

The chief fear of these men is that before release many will look upon their production as a travel picture. They insist that it is straight drama, with suspense, comedy, continuity and tempo. It has a story, too.

"Natural drama," Mr Cooper explains, "is drama produced with natural actors in their own environment, living the story of their lives and their struggle for existence. "This new jungle picture is the story of a people surrounded by an abundance of food. There is so much food that a superabundance of creatures live on it and on each other. There is the constant menace that life will overwhelm the humans struggling against it. On this we built our story.

"We chose an attractive family living in the edge of the jungle for our central characters. Their staple food is rice, they build their bamboo houses on poles to protect themselves from jungle animals; they keep domestic animals and chickens. They are constantly faced with the problem of protecting themselves against the depredations of beasts—tigers, leopards, bears, snakes, elephants. The elephants become their best friends and source of wealth when trained, but in wild herds they are to be feared.

"In photographing the lives of these people we always kept the dramatic values in mind. The story develops, shows the wavering between hope and fear and the final triumph over a herd of more than 400 wild elephants.

"We wanted it to stand by itself as a piece of dramatic entertainment. The fact that, in addition to this, it has scenes of great scenic beauty, shows the people untouched by civilization and that there are thrills and laughs in it, leads me to hope that we have accomplished something new in the field of picture production."

Fanchon and Marco are presenting an all-star cast in their latest "Idea," Highlights, featuring Marton and Mayo, "those two nuts left over from Christmas"; Tenah Tweedy, "the original Heebie-Jeebie Girl; the Three La Grohs, world famous contortionists, and the Belcher Ballet Des Enfants, a spectacular revue of diminutive stars de Dance.

Milt Franklyn and his band appear on the stage in silk tops this week, impersonating the Musical High-Hatters, and perform a Jazz Wedding which promises a distinct novelty in entertainment.

BALBOA THEATRE

Emile Jannings, in "The Way of All flesh," which comes to the Balboa theatre tomorrow for a week's engagement, has been acclaimed by the critics as the greatest of all international character actors.

The theme of "The Way of All Flesh," triumphantly discloses the acting art, with Jannings, the superlative star, in a picture that in its full unfoldment touches the heart. Janning's accomplishments have already been recognized in his European-made films. In "Passion," "Deception," and "The Last Laugh," and even in "Variety," he has proffered performances and portrayed characters that have lent an indellible impression.

Janning's interpretation in "The Way of All Flesh," is said to be more imposinng as an interpretation than any of his former triumphs. That is an amazing fact, the producers say, because there are always certain grave doubts hinging on the adaptability of the Europeon artist to the environment over here.

It is known that Jannings himself entered on his career in America with doubts and skepticism. His first picture, at least, has been a revelation in its result of what a full understanding of new conditions meant for his march forward in this country.

There are excellent and vital performances by Phyllis Haver and Belle Bennett and a group of youngesters, filling roles in the narrative which centers in a character study.

In essence, "The Way of All Flesh" is a melodramatic story of the robbing of a yokel by a band of crooks, transpiring presumably in a period when short coats and long skirts were fashionable. "The Way of All Flesh" is a deeply touching thing. It is in its way as fine an expression of the sacrifice of father love as "Stella Dallas," mother love. Victor Fleming, the director, has been given credit for a picture of fine suppressions, fine naturalness and fine reserves.

In addition to the mammoth screen attraction, Carr Brothers' band will offer a symphonic program of music synchronizing both screen and stage attractions. Vaudeville of well chosen specialties promises excellent diversion.

He was a lone loser among his station associates and his claim that it was his first bet of the kind ever lost is poohpoohed by the bunch as purely "bologna!" At any rate, the Ryan gasoline buggy was decorated with a huge hydrangea all wound round with several yards of crepe as one of the penalties of fickle fortune.

IS A HEALTHIER STRONGER GIRL

Because She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The fertile valleys of Oregon help to supply the tables of America. This is possible through the magic of the humble tin can.

In one of the canning establishments, Julia Schmidt was employed. It was complicated work because she did sealing and other parts of the work. It was strenuous work and she was not a strong girl. Often she forced herself to work when she was hardly able to sit at her machine. At times she would have to stay at home for she was so weak she could hardly walk. For five years she was in this weakened condition.

She tried various medicines. At last, a friend of hers spoke of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she gave it a trial.

"Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she writes. "I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends who tell me how they suffer and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it." Julia Schmidt's address is 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon.

Girls who work in factories know just how Miss Schmidt felt. Perhaps they, too, will find better health by taking the Vegetable Compound.

Little Financial Gain From Immortal Works

William Shakespeare's emergence from practical poverty to comparative wealth near the close of the Sixteenth century was not the result of his play writing, but the earnings of his shares in the Globe and Blackfriars theaters.

His plays brought some returns, but not nearly enough at that time to enable him to buy New Place, the most imposing residence, with one exception, in Stratford. It is estimated that his shares paid him about $1,500 a year, equal to perhaps $12,000 at the present time. At about this time he received substantial sums from performances at court, and his fees as an actor and dramatist increased.

Previously he had at times been unable to remain clear of debt. In the tax records it is revealed that he was in arrears in 1596 when he moved from Shoreditch to Southwark, and later he paid the overdue taxes in installments. His wife also found it difficult to make both ends meet. Some time before 1596 she borrowed a sum from her father's shepherd and she had not repaid in 1601.

"Clip" Made Trouble

A cook in Rockland, Maine, shaved his head and bumped into trouble right away. Being in such close proximity to the penitentiary at Thomaston, he was arrested on suspicion of being an escaped convict. He had much difficulty in convincing the police that he had merely removed his hair to avoid getting grease into it when he was frying food.

Long Forgotten Isles

Somebody in Whitehall has discovcovered that at least one group of the British Isles has not yet been surveyed and officially mapped, and a government expedition is being sent to St. Kilda to do the job. "Flyosan ALWAYS kills," says Doc Fly

DON'T kill flies and mosquitoes one at a time.

Flyosan—the first and only effective fly and mosquito spray (non-poisonous)—kills all the flies and mosquitoes in your house in only a few minutes.

But use Flyosan itself. Don't take chances with inferior imitations. Rid your home quickly, thoroughly, not only of flying pests but also of the filthy, deadly germs which each one carries.

"Swatting" only scatters these millions of disease-bearing germs.

Here is the right insecticide for each insect:

FLYOSAN, Liquid Spray — kills flies and mosquitoes.
PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD — exterminates ants.
PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY, Liquid — exterminates bedbugs.
PETERMAN'S ROACH FOOD — exterminates that cockroach army.
PETERMAN'S MOTH FOOD — protects against moths.

You must have a specific insecticide for each insect. No single insecticide will exterminate them all. We have had nearly 50 years' experience. We know that is true.

Peterman's has the right insecticide for each insect. On sale wherever drugs are sold.

THE IMPORTANT GARNISH

IT WAS a little New York city school girl who raised her hand in the cooking class when the teacher asked, "What is a garnish?" and all the rest of the class looked dumbfounded.

"I know, teacher," piped Yetta. "It's parsley."

There are a good many women like Yetta, who think that parsley is all there is to the entire subject of garnishing foods to make them more attractive.

Parsley and lemon are the housewife's stand-bys for garnishes, because they are always obtainable, twelve months out of the twelve. The housewife who has not access to large markets can grow her own parsley in a pot on the kitchen window sill. Of course, lemons are always to be found in every well-stocked kitchen, and there is scarcely a day when it is not needed for something. Fish, whether canned or fresh, is one meat which seems to demand a few drops of lemon juice to bring out its flavor, and for such garnishes the lemon should be cut into sections lengthwise, six sections from one lemon. These long sections are much easier to use than slices are, though slices are decorative.

Cold meats look very tempting when carefully arranged on a large platter garnished not only with parsley, but with other decorative foods, as well, such as slices of firm red tomato, each with a slice of olive in its center, disks of carrot or cucumber, rings of sweet green pepper or onion, or tiny disks of sliced sweet gerkins. Tiny red radishes, either plain or cut into buds, and whole olives are always good looking, either on a platter of cold meats or decorating a salad.

In garnishing salads and desserts, nut meats and candied or maraschino cherries are a pretty garnish. Stiff jelly may be cut into tiny cubes with a sharp knife, or scooped into balls with a vegetable scoop. This little tool is very useful, in making balls of apple, banana, watermelon, beet, etc., to rim up various dishes. Capers and tiny pickled onions are also piquant as well as attractive garnishes.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

FIGHTING — RETREATING

A GOOD many battles have been lost because the commanding general in learning how to fight, neglected to learn how to retreat.

In the battle of life it is quite as necessary to know how to extricate yourself from a difficulty as it is to know the principles of getting ahead.

The man who continues to attempt what has proved impossible of accomplishment may have admirable courage but very poor judgment.

The one thing that a good general does when he is retreating is to KEEP FIGHTING.

If you keep fighting hard enough the retreat itself may be the means of eventual victory.

A young man who has chosen the wrong occupation, who has undertaken a job for which he is not fitted, will gain in the end if he retreats and gets into a new and better position.

Most of us are best fitted for one thing.

If we try to be more than that or other than that we sacrifice results, and results are the only things that count.

There are very few Michaelangelos who can be equal successes as sculptors and painters and architects.

It is only once in ages that there is a man like Leonardo Da Vinci, who was perhaps the wisest man that ever lived. He attained eminence as an artist whose masterpieces "The Last Supper" and "Mona Lisa," have been reproduced more than any other two pictures ever painted.

He was a great engineer, a wonderful inventor, a musician of merit, a botanist, a chemist, an astronomer, a geologist, an explorer and geographer and on all of these subjects he was a voluminous and entertaining writer.

He was one general in a million—he never had occasion to retreat.

Conduct your retreat in an orderly manner.

Cyrus the Great, who won many victories to have his head cut off by the woman, Queen Tomyris, to whom he lost the last battle he fought, said of retreating: "When an army must retreat, let the retreat be managed in the safest manner and not in the quickest."

Don't be in a hurry about changing your work.

Don't be impetuous and throwing down your tools, or your books or whatever you work with, walk out with a "to h—l with that job."

Conduct your retreat in a safe, sane way, fighting as you go, fighting to find the right thing and the right place where you will be worth most to yourself and therefore most to everybody else.

The one thing is to be sure you are doing something. Either go ahead or retreat.

Don't try to be a stand-still soldier.

There is often quoted a truism that a rolling stone gathers no moss. But moss is not a very valuable asset and nobody need count himself a great failure if he dies without ever having possessed any.

A well-polished diamond is the most valuable of the mineral family, and the value comes to that only after a good deal of rough contact with things harder than itself which shape and brighten it.

Go ahead all the time if you can. But if you cannot go any further ahead on the line you have chosen don't be afraid to "back up" and try another road to success.

The Pity of It

"My objection to real life," says the heroine of a Scotch novel, "is that it isn't true to the moving pictures."

YOU

By EVELYN GAGE BROWNE

THERE'S nothing to fear—you're as good as the best,
As strong as the mightiest, too;
You can win in every battle or test—
For there's no one JUST LIKE YOU!

There's only one YOU in the world today,
So nobody else, you see,
Can do your work in as fine a way,
You're the only YOU there'll be!

So face the world and all life is yours
To conquer and love and live,
And you'll find the happiness that endures,
In just the measure you give.

There's nothing too good for you to possess,
Nor heights where you cannot go;
Your power is more than belief or guess—
It is something you have to KNOW!

There's nothing to fear—YOU CAN AND WILL
For you're the invincible YOU!
So set your feet on the highest hill—
THERE'S NOTHING YOU CAN NOT DO!

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—Tom Masson Was a Traveling Salesman.

AT ABOUT this time I was a traveling salesman, and I believe, one of the worst salesmen that ever happened.

I was always ambitious to edit a humorous paper and I particularly wanted to edit Life, but I did not take any aggressive action. I contributed very frequently to the paper when it was started by Mr. Mitchell and it happened that occasionally some of my items were misplaced, or something else would happen, and then they would send for me to come to the office to straighten things out.

One day, after such a visit, Mr. Mitchell asked me to edit the paper. I asked why he had thought to offer me the position when I had not asked for it and he replied that I had shown such a readiness to locate the little troubles regarding manuscripts, and such ability to get things right that he decided I had the type of mind to keep the office going smoothly.—Thomas L. Masson.

TODAY: Mr. Masson bears the enviable reputation of being America's premier jokesmith, having written literally thousands of jokes. He was the editor of Life for over a quarter of a century and has produced many books on humor. As a creator of the jokes you read in newspapers and magazines he has few peers in the world.

ECONOMY

In the club they were talking of men who, though famous and wealthy, were at the same time very mean.

"I once knew a man," said Butler, "who was so economical that he used to cover up his inkwell between dips in case any should be lost by evaporation."

"But I knew a man," observed Cutler, "who stopped his clock every night to prevent the works wearing while he was asleep!"—London Answers.

YOUR National Parks

"COME OUT TO AMERICA'S PLAYGROUND!"

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

MADE any plans yet for your summer vacation? If you haven't, how about deciding to spend it in one of the public playgrounds, state or national, which are at your service? President Coolidge has set the example for his fellow-Americans by selecting one of them, Custer state park in South Dakota, as the site of his, and the state game lodge, a handsome three-story, 30-room structure of Swiss chalet style, nestled in a beautiful valley, surrounded by mountain crags and with a cheerful little trout stream murmuring along at its foot will be the summer White House.

Of course, not all of us can have the exclusive use of such an attractive place as this. But how about deciding to spend your vacation in some one of the 19 national parks which Uncle Sam maintains for you and to which he has already issued his annual invitation for you to pay a visit? The invitation comes to you over the signature of Stephen P. Mather, director of the National Park service. But they are not Mr. Mather's parks. Nor are they Uncle Sam's parks. They are YOUR national parks. Uncle Sam and Mr. Mather are just the custodians who have charge of them and whose business it is to see to it that your enjoyment of your own property may be had to the fullest extent if you will make the most of the opportunity.

Is it hiking, mountain-climbing or camping that you want? Is it fishing or camera-hunting (hunting with guns, of course, is out of the question, but if your weapon is a camera and your ammunition a roll of films you will hurt neither the animals nor another hunter nor yourself) that you most desire? Or is it scenery, glimpses of magnificent distances, of snow-capped mountain peaks, of volcanoes, of glaciers, of all the other natural wonders and beauties in a virgin wilderness that your heart longs for? If it is any of these you can easily satisfy your desires. Over on the right you will see a page from a national park service pamphlet which will give you "The National Park at a Glance." Look at it and you can see where to go to get those things you wish for.

But you do not have to limit your choice to the attractions of the 19 national parks. In addition to them there are 32 national monuments which offer equally inviting glimpses of natural wonders and natural beauties. They are the following:

Devil's Tower, Wyo.; Montezuma Castle, Ariz.; Petrified Forest, Ariz.; El Morro, N. M.; Chaco Canyon, N. M.; Muir Woods, Calif.; Natural Bridge, Utah; Lewis and Clark Cavern, Mont.; Tumacacori, Ariz.; Shoshone Cavern, Wyo.; Gran Quivira, N. M.; Katmai, Glacier Bay and Sitka, Alaska; Rainbow Bridge, Utah; Pinnacles, Calif.; Colorado, Colo.; Papago Saguaro, Ariz.; Capulin Mountain, N. M.; Dinosaur, Utah; Verendrye, N. D.; Casa Grande, Ariz.; Scott's Bluff, Neb.; Yucca House, Colo.; Fossil Cycad, S. D.; Carlsbad (limestone) Cave, N. M.; Aztec Ruin, N. M.; Hovensweep, Utah-Colo.; Pipe Springs, Ariz.; Craters of the Moon, Idaho, and Wupatki, Ariz.

If you enjoy visiting historic places there are also seven national military and other parks and nine other national monuments under the jurisdiction of the secretary of war. The parks are: Chickamauga and Chattanooga, Ga. and Tenn.; Shiloh, Tenn.; Gettysburg, Pa.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Antietam Battlefield, Md.; Lincoln's Birthplace, Ky.; and Guilford Court House, N. C. The monuments are: Big Hole Battlefield, Mont.; Cabrillo, Calif.; Mound City group, Ohio; Fort Wood, N. Y. (site of the Statue of Liberty); Castle Pinckney, S. C.; Fort Pulaski, Ga.; Fort Marion, Fla.; Fort Matanzas, Fla., and Meriweather Lewis, Tenn.

And if you still want some place to go for recreation there are something like 600 state parks in 43 states with an area of 7,000,000 acres, conserving scenery, wild life, historical and scientific sites. At least that is the report which came from the delegates to the seventh national conference on state parks at a recent meeting at Bear Mountain, Palisades Inter-State park in New York. So it would seem that with this grand total of more than 650 public playgrounds, America will not find it difficult to satisfy its longing for an occasional excusion into the life of the great outdoors. Judging from the records of last year, they are taking full advantage of the opportunity. More than 2,300,000 visitors, the greatest number yet on record, registered at the 19 national parks and the 32 national monuments in 1926. The fees paid by them enriched Uncle Sam (that is to say, they took the money out of one pocket and put it into another) by approximately $826,500. Of course there is just one reason why Americans to that number were able to set a new record in the matter of visits to THEIR national parks. Last summer 36,000,000 persons used 9,000,000 autos in which to go motor-gypsying. Three million, three hundred thousand of them carried camping equipment and these pursuers of the open trail spent the staggering sum of $3,325,000,000 en route. This year, it is estimated that 40,000,000 persons or one-third of the nation's entire population will set forth to see what they can see. Uncle Sam has got the national parks ready for this ten per cent increase in visitors.

One important fact about YOUR national parks is that they are not only playgrounds, places for recreation, but that they are rapidly becoming great universities, places for education, where in the words of Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, the department which has control over the parks, "Nature is the supreme teacher as well as the master textbook." Accordingly the National Park service has embarked upon an educational program by making use of these natural laboratories.

For Postage Stamps

Postage stamps that Uncle Sam must produce every year call for an enormous amount of material. The weight of the paper used in a single stamp is so slight that only most sensitive scales will register it. But during a period of 12 months 2,000,000 pounds of paper are used for stamps by the bureau of engraving and printing. This paper is made into sheets about the size of a newspaper page, and 1,500,000 of these sheets are used each year. Six hundred thousand pounds of dextrine and 30,000 pounds of glucose are annually consumed in the process. Each year about 1,000,000 pounds of ink are used in the printing of the various issues.

Fresh Water in Oceans

There are several places in the different oceans of the world where fresh water may be found. One of the best know of these places is beyond the coast of Miami, Fla. The cause of this fresh water in the midst of the salt ocean is a spring formed by a subterranean river.

Malay Peninsula

The whole of the Malay peninsula, from the southern boundary of Siam to the Strait of Singapore, is known as the Straits Settlements. It includes Singapore, Penany, Malacca, Labuan, Cocos island and Christmas island. The settlements have an entire area of about 1,600 square miles. They form a British crown colony.

WOODPECKERS' BAND

The Woodpecker family were around on various trees drumming, drumming on the bark.

Mr. Hairy Woodpecker, Mr. Downy Woodpecker and Mr. Red-Headed Woodpecker were hard at work.

"Let's start a band," suggested Mr. Hairy Woodpecker.

"What's that you say?" asked Mr. Red-Headed Woodpecker, who had been so busy at work that he had not heard what Mr. Hairy Woodpecker had been suggesting.

"A band," repeated Mr. Hairy Woodpecker.

"What sort of a band?" asked Mr. Red-Headed Woodpecker.

"In the first place," continued Mr. Hairy Woodpecker, "our bills are not only fine tools for the work we have to do getting the insects from the trees, and burrowing for our nests, but they should be splendid to use in beating the drums in a band."

"Where would we get the drums?" asked Mr. Red-Headed Woodpecker.

"The trees, of course, you silly!" said Mr. Hairy Woodpecker.

"Oh, yes, yes," agreed Mr. Red-Headed Woodpecker.

And Mr. Downy Woodpecker said: "Of course, of course. The trees will be our drums."

"We'll get the other birds," said Mr. Hairy Woodpecker, "to help us."

"We need something in a band besides the drums. We will ask the goldfinches, the mocking birds, the bobolinks, the phoebes, and chickadee families, all of the warbler and vireo families, and the robins of course.

"Then I think we'll ask the orioles, the whippoorwills, the thrush family and the song sparrows."

"Oh," said Mr. Downy Woodpecker, "that will make a perfect band. We'd better get started right away."

And the woodpeckers began to practice. They made such a noise that the birds came from far and near to see what they were doing.

Mr. Sapsucker, Mr. Crested Woodpecker and Mrs. Flicker Woodpecker had all joined in beating the drums, too!

"Why are you making so much noise?" asked the birds as they flew around to the nearby trees to talk to the woodpeckers.

"Oh," said Mr. Hairy Woodpecker, "we are just going to ask you all to join our band. We will beat the drums."

"And just what do you want us to do?" asked Mr. Robin Redbreast, who was always eager to help.

"You must all sing."

"But we all sing so differently," chirped a song sparrow. "We know different tunes and different songs."

"Oh," said Mr. Hairy Woodpecker. "I never thought about that.

"But never mind; you can have little parts to sing alone, and other choruses where you will all sing together.

"I am sure it will be a very fine band after we have practiced."

And they began pounding the drums again.

"Well," said Mr. Robin Redbreast, "if the bird band isn't to be the finest in the land, at least we'll make a cheerful noise!"

A Kennebunk (Maine) man who will never pass up a rummage sale attended the annual sale of second-hand stuff by the Unitarian women of that town. He spied a billfold which he liked. He bought it for a cent, and when he opened it to transfer his money, he liked the looks of it all the more, for tucked away in one corner was a perfectly good $5 bill.

Incaic Music Revived

A variation of an old traditional theme of the Incas was recently introduced at a concert at Lima, Peru, and won enthusiastic applause. The composition by Aguilar, a local musician, brought out all the glory of the Incas, the royal race claiming descent from the sun, that ruled in Peru before Pizarro's conquest in 1531. The theme was based on an old song that once was sung in the Quichua language, that is slowly dying out in that country.

putting into this company's stock?"

"Five thousand dollars," the customer told him, "It looks to me like a good line of business, and I think they can make it go."

"I shouldn't be surprised if they make money in it," his banker admitted. "And I should not be surprised either if C ran it into the ground. Maybe he's a better business man than he used to be, and maybe he isn't. Can you afford to lose five thousand dollars?"

"No, I can't," the younger man confessed. "That's about half of what I've managed to save since the war, including my equity in my home. If I lost that much I'd feel pretty sick."

"Now mind you, I'm not saying you'll lose it," his advisor warned him. "But there's a good chance you may. Why don't you take as much of it as you feel you can afford to risk—a thousand dollars of it, say—and put the rest of your money into conservative investments? Then if this company makes good, you won't make so much money from it; but if it fails you won't lose so much. And you will have a lot more peace of mind while the uncertainty lasts. You can't afford to worry too much, or it will cut down your earnings from your profession."
